LOCAL NEWS.

AMUSEMENTS TO-NIGET. GROVER'S THEATER -The Opera .- The regular performance at Grover's fine Theater will be suspended for this night only, for the purpose of giving place to the opera Two famed prima donnas appear on one night—Miss Clara Louisa Keilogg and Madame De Lussan, together with Brignell, Amedie, and Susini, and Gottschalk in his best selections. This is certainly a brilliant array of unexcelled musical talent. The programme is a fine one :- The third act of "Lucia Di Lammermoor;" duet from "Il Puritani;" the fourth act from "Il Trovatore;" with Gottschalk

FORD's ATHENEUM .- A young lady of Washington, giving evidence of remarkable histrionic talent, appears to-night upon the Atheneum boards for the first time. This young lady has a fine figure, pleasing countenance, and a voice powerful though musical. The role selected for her is "Pauline," in the Lady of Lyons, and she is brought out under very distinguished patronage. Home talent should always be sustained, and we doubt not the citizens of Washington will give the fair debutante a hearty greeting. Mr. John McCulloch and all of Ford's splendid company will also appear. CANTERBURY .- Farce, ballet, music, vocal and instrumental, dance and gymnastic feats are all on the bills for to-night at Canterbury. Harry Rice and Dick Parker appear in their most sidesplitting eccentricities, and Millie Fowler and the entire court of beauty appear in dance and WASHINGTON THEATER-Laughing Gas .- Dr. Colton continues to instruct by his lectures and to amuse by his experiments. The inhalation produces some most comical and eccentric effects; and if laughter is conductive to good health, Dr. Colton administers it in very fair doses.

LADIES' FAIR .- The fair of the young ladies of Ascension Church continues to be very attractive and pleasant, and all who resort to it come away pleased. No efforts have been spared to make the fair an attractive one, and we are pleased to know that their efforts have been thus far successful. The fair is held in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, opposite Brown's Hotel.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.-Free concerts daily at 4 p. m. Selections from best classic and operatic authors. Refreshments of all kinds at hand.

ARRIVAL OF THE NAUGATUCK .- The Stevens gunboat Naugatuck, arrived yesterday afternoon from James river, at the Navy Yard, for repairs. As she sets in the water at present she is a curious looking structure, resembling somewhat a canal gondola. In size she does not exceed a large canal boat. She has sloping sides and bows of twenty-inch timber, the bow being iron-plated. At each end she has water-tight compartments, which can be pumped by the small engines for that purpose, full of water, in a few minutes, thereby submerging her to within eighteen inches of her bulwarks, leaving only that much exposed. On her deck she has the wreck of the large Parrott gun which burst in the Fort Darling engagement. This igun points immediately over the bows, a large groove in the deck being made for its making. When the gun was to be loaded the muzzle was depressed through an opening to the deck below, when the men loaded it, and afterward elevated it to its original position; the gunner firing it being the only one exposed on deck at the time. The gun was loaded for the seventh round at the time of the accident, with a ten-pound cartridge and solid shot, and but two persons were injured, the captain, who was struck on the head with a small piece of the flying metal, and the gunner, who had his shoulder bruised. The frame in which the gun worked is split, and the aft beam is also started.

AN ENGAGEMENT BETWEEN HARPER'S FER-RY AND WINCHESTER.

Below we publish a very interesting letter from our correspondent with the army in the vicinity of Harper's Ferry. From it it is certain that the Union troops in that quarter are again on the advance, and have thrashed the rebels handsomely in a little affair that occurred on the day before yesterday eight miles out from Harper's Ferry,

The two hundred horses captured by our troops, when the 11th Pennsylvania came upon them.

LATEST FROM THE VALLEY. HARPER's PERRY, May 29 .- Editor Star : It is with pleasurable emotions I chronicle a few of the events in the history of the lat Regiment of the District of Columbia. As our friends already know, we left our camp at Beltaville on Saturday last, at 2 p. m., for Harper's Ferry. The regi-ment arrived on Sunday morning, and immedi-ately proceeded on towards Winchester, to reinforce Banks, who, it was then known, was hard pressed by the enemy. No event worth narrating occurred, until the trains (three in number) had arrived to within about three miles of Winches ter, when it was discovered that Banks' forces were in retreat. The advanced train stopped, and the men leaped from the cars. At this time a large number of t he retreating forces were run-ning for their lives, the enemy's shell falling in close proximity, and a general panic appeared to pervade the fugitives. The first train had no officer on board of rank above 1st Sergeant. However, he was adequate to the occasion, and let Sergeant Crow, of company I, amid all the con-fusion of the moment, formed the men in line, and proceeded to call the roll as deliberately as if in camp at tattoo. There was no bustle among the men, each falling into his place in perfect order. At this juncture the second train arrived. parent that to go on was madness, and the only course that prudence could dictate was to pick up the fugitives and return to Harper's Ferry. About 400 were picked up and brought in, to gether with all the rolling stock on the road, and 80 barrels flour, &c. In the confusion of picking up the fugitives, Sergt. Crow and two privates, who were reconnoitering, were left behind. Again the Sergeant showed his qualifications, for about sundown he came into Harper's Ferry with a large crowd of fugitives in good order, having a hand-car he had found along the road, and upon it eight sick and wounded soldiers, that he had

On Wednesday a reconnoissance was made to Charlestown. The 111th Pennsylvania Regiment, with a section of Reynold's Battery, passed through the town, and found the enemy in strong force of artillery and cavalry. Nine guns were counted. A sharp skirmish was had, when our forces withdrew in good order. The enemy followed for some four miles with cavalry, but another section of the battery had been dispatched to the assistance of the first, which was sufficient to hold the enemy in check. A large number of the enemy were killed and wounded, and several prisoners are reported taken. A large number of horses (200) were brought in, with sabers, pistols, and muskets, &c. On the return of the expedition, the whole force was placed in position on Bolivar Heights, a strong one by nature, and now safe against a large army. Our entire strength we know, and that is enough. We feel safe, and only want secesh to try us. As we felt quite sure of an attack, it was interesting to see how coolly the officers and men went about their duties. Last night was quiet, and to-day we feel quite sure that to get a fight we shall have to go after

Our hope of intercepting Jackson's retreat is therefore greatly increased; as we do not perceive how so considerable a body of rebels as one large enough to be accompanied by nine pieces of artillery, after being between Winchester and Harper's Ferry on the day before yesterday, can get sack to Staunton and Gordonsville, in view of the arrangements the Government here must have made to punish them for their temerity.
